

MontRubi Black

The Producer

The winery is founded in L'Avella as a village cooperative, where wines and oils were made and exported to Cuba. The Peris family recognizes the high historic value of a small winery and L'Avella territory's potential and founds MontRubi, which starts producing cava. After years producing cava and experiencing how the industry was going through a battle of prices, the family decides to change direction and starts to make wine. From their vineyards, they harvest only certified organic grapes of native varieties of their area. These soils are not uniform and the combination, of the different textures gives the wines more complexity, character and minerality. With these characteristics, we aim at a style that focus in the fruit, the freshness and the elegance.

Tasting Notes

Black is a young and lively wine with an intense purple hue that hints at the delicious fruit to come. The boisterous nose is full of wild berry and Murcian plum accented by a floral note of violets. The wine is silky smooth on the palate, but with a fresh definition that leaves you wanting more. The lingering finish of blackberries continues from one sip to the next.
